GENERAL

1. The Reference Library of the European Command Intelligence School (ECIS) consists of approximately 5,000 books, pamphlets, and periodicals. The library has some German language material but it is mainly of the propaganda type.
2. The language section of the school has some Russian language material which they bought in a Berlin bookstore. The material consists of the more common Russian periodicals and a few books. It is used for training in the school.
3. The "R" section, which is a Russian language training section, is attached to ECIS but not subordinate to it. It also has Russian language printed material which is used for training. This material is obtained from bookstores in Switzerland, Paris, and New York.
